

Guide to private accommodation

Our partners at Nottingham Trent University have linked up with the University of London Housing Services who can offer support to Confetti students who are looking for and living in private rented accommodation.

How they can help:

Property Platform

We have a Property Platform to help you find student housing in London. You can search accommodation provided by private landlords, letting agents, private halls and other providers of private housing. All providers are checked by us before they sign up, and must also agree to our code of practice, so you can feel confident in your search. You can find our platform directly here:

Contract checking

We can check the contract for unfair terms which may cause you problems in your accommodation. We can also check that any letting agent you are renting with has the right accreditations. You can contact us to book an appointment for this service, or use our Contract Checking Guide.

Legal Advice

Our experienced Housing Advice Team offer advice on a range of issues including deposit disputes, disrepair, and problems with letting agents or private student accommodation providers. To support the work of the advice team, we have a retained firm of solicitors, Anthony Gold.

Events

We run housing-related events for students. This includes housing talks, webinars, flatmate finder events and our annual Housing Fair.

Guides

We publish a Housing Guide and Contract Checking Guide to help students know their rights, and get quick answers to any questions about renting.
