

COURSE COMMITMENT

Course Title: L3 Music Performance and Songwriting
Your Course Leader: Ian Marshall

vJan24

Our commitment to you

Using industry standard facilities, our aim is to guide and equip our students with the technical, musical, personal skills and experience to become a professional performing musician and song writer.

Our education offer

Intent

We provide a personalised, diverse, practical and industry-relevant course that is structured and planned to unlock your full potential within the wider music industry.

Implementation

You will be writing individually and with other musicians, creating a portfolio of music that covers a wide range of musical styles. You will be taught how to produce and record these in Confetti's world-class recording studios and learn from a dedicated, committed, skilled and passionate teaching team. As a student you will engage with interactive lessons full of inspiring and relevant information to learn both practically and theoretically.

Impact

The teaching team are highly experienced both in the classroom and in the industry, to give students a broad and well-rounded education. This will maximise your employability and heighten your chances of establishing a successful industry career of your choice.

You will be given relevant and industry-standard practices to aid in marketing and networking amongst professional industry figures. This will provide you with developmental opportunities, that are both enjoyable and beneficial to your musical career.

Examples of industry opportunities include performances at BBC Introducing, Rough Trade, Rad Fest, Metronome, Bodega, Rescue Rooms, Dot To Dot, and many others.

Expected behaviours and attitudes

Intent

We expect you to conduct yourself to the highest professional standards, in ways that align with industry expectations of professionalism. We will develop and nurture these attitudes to prepare you for working in the music industry.

Implementation

You will be presented with a vast array of professional opportunities, such as performances, workshops and recording sessions and will learn how to work within the challenges and expectations of those environments. We endeavour to give you the confidence and resilience to navigate your way through an ever-evolving industry.

You will engage in unique experiences, such as Industry Week, where you will learn from, and interact with, an exciting roster of artists, songwriters, producers and more, who will provide you with an insight into the behaviours that will help you progress in the industry. This vocational development will be supported and enhanced by your academic development. You will be expected to: attend; be punctual; submit to deadline and be professional.

Impact

You will form a well-rounded understanding of how you should conduct yourself in the music industry (being punctual, submitting to deadline and behaving professionally) and will become much more employable as a result. Many of Confetti's students have gone on to become professional artists, songwriters, musicians, producers, composers, etc.

Your personal and professional development

Intent

We will inspire your growth, both personally and musically, engaging in continual, dedicated and passionate commitment towards your positive professional development. We aim to help you expand your opportunities for progression either into Higher Education or the industry.

Implementation

You will engage in multiple projects designed to develop your musical ability, your confidence and your versatility, enabling you to become a valuable member of the Music industry. You will develop career-specific skills tailored to your chosen progression route through rehearsals, studio sessions and song-writing sessions, leading to the creation of a musical portfolio, promotional material, and networking opportunities.

Lessons are designed to stretch and challenge you, with a focus on achieving your personal aspirations. Through one-to-one mentoring, you will be presented with opportunities to set meaningful targets, that directly relate to your own personal development - academically, musically and professionally.

Impact

You will leave the course with a wide-ranging portfolio and industry-appropriate skillset which showcases your abilities and knowledge, ready for your journey into the Music industry.