

COURSE COMMITMENT

Course Title: L3 Technical Events
Your Course Leader: Darren Harding

vJan24

Our commitment to you

Our mission is to provide students with access to professional, inspiring experience within the events industry by providing an engaging learning environment, helping you achieve practical and theoretical understanding within the events sector. Allowing for your own personal progression in industry or higher education.

Our education offer

Intent

Our curriculum is designed to prepare you for professional industry practice by providing real industry opportunities taught by industry professionals. This is supported with academic, developmental and technical understanding and learning.

The course is sequenced to provide you with opportunities to engage and interact with professional practice and experience. The course allows learners to transfer key knowledge to long term memory by applying professional practice.

Implementation

You'll be tasked with inclusive practical projects, both in and outside of the college environment, practicing key industry techniques, such as professional lighting, live sound, health and safety and production planning.

You will be working on weekly practical sessions, developing technical understanding which is supported by theory and production planning sessions where you will explore real industry events. You will be assessed via different production roles on public facing live events where you will be responsible for aspects of operation and planning.

Impact

Through consistent rehearsal in a real venue space with real industry equipment you will develop a thorough technical understanding of equipment and professional practice. With the intention of you leaving with industry resilience and to be a competent technical events specialist.

You will develop interpersonal skills to allow you to navigate external and public facing gigs which will build your confidence, networking and accountability which are essential skills required by employers.

Expected behaviours and attitudes

Intent

You will understand fully, the expectation of working within the events industry by simulating real life situations understanding what professional standards are expected of you. Course tutors' professional experience will be passed on by highlighting the importance of attendance, punctuality and reliability as these are essential for success within the industry.

Implementation

You will have ownership and responsibility over the events on the course which makes you accountable for your behaviour and attitude. Working in groups during your time on the course will establish your professional attitude towards others and the industry itself.

Our assessments will promote individual obligation for group projects, encouraging you to take responsibility of your own actions in professional environment.

Impact

By trusting you with production responsibilities you will be able to acquire the necessary attitude respect and behaviour that will allow you to discover what industry expectations are.

You will not only be learning how to function within your course and production group but practicing vital industry attitudes, making you a more employable individual.

Your personal and professional development

Intent

Our intention is that through personal tutoring and an inclusive curriculum we can provide a learning environment that develops your growth as an individual as well as supporting you as you navigate through an ambitious industry. Our course tutors have industry experience that is used to design supportive yet challenging curriculum that sets you up for success in future endeavours.

Implementation

We will be providing you with termly tutorials which contain personal developmental targets and one to one tutoring where you can express your thoughts, feelings and opinions in a supportive environment.

Our curriculum is built for you to be able to assume and experience a variety of different production roles throughout the course which will enable you to choose a way of being assessed that suits your personal needs. It also allows you to develop your confidence and resilience as well as find the area of the industry you are passionate about.

Impact

You will feel well supported and engaged without personal tutors, their ex-industry professional advice and mentorship will be essential in developing your character as well as navigating the industry.

