

WOLMER WOOD,

MARLOW COMMON,

MARLOW, BUCKS.

April 4th 1933.

My dear Philip

I was very glad to get your letter and to hear that you were on your way home; I hope that by now you have arrived safely and that you have had a very comfortable journey. At any rate the weather has behaved decently, for today has been almost like summer and even London must have looked bright and cheerful — here it has been quite hot and I have been able to put in some hours work in the garden, doing a number of odd jobs. I have been quite busy lately, during the fine spell, with garden work which gives me exercise, and I have been glad of the chance of getting out in the sun.

I do not think I have any news to send you; I hope you got my letter in Rome, as in that I sent you what news there was at the time, and since then nothing of importance has happened. Peter has gone back to London — he went last Wednesday — and is quite busy doing things. Of course he cannot move about much at present but he is able to get to his film company office and to take up his work there again and to get in touch with business matters once more; he is very glad to be out and about after having been laid up for so long.

I hope you and Lucy are really feeling better for your trip abroad and I hope you will not begin at once to overwork — take things easily and don't try to crowd too many things into your days. I hope to see you soon.

Our love to you both always yours A. L. W.
