

WOLMER WOOD,

MARLOW COMMON,

MARLOW, BUCKS.

May 24th 1935

My dear Lucy

Many thanks for your letter; it was nice to see your hand-writing again. We shall be delighted to come on Wednesday and shall hope to find you and Philip well — in spite of the strain of Jubilee London. We take things more quietly down here.

I hope sincerely that the weather will change to something more like summer by the end of next week; we have arranged to go down to Bournemouth on June 4th and I do not want another cold spell when we get there.

The frost a few days ago did quite a lot of damage and the young growth on many of the bushes has suffered a good deal — even the rhododendrons have been nipped in many places. Ours is a curious climate!

Should I bring my evening suit on Wednesday or only my black coat?

Our love to you both

always yours

A.L.B.
