

29th April, 1936.

Dear Mr. Baldry,

Here are those which I have been able to get of the reproductions Mr. de László asked me to send you, viz: Hogarth's "Shrimp Girl", Reynolds' "Lord Heathfield", and Ingres' "La Source" and "Joan of Arc" - these last two I hope meet Mr. de László's wish, which was for "a good Ingres".

Of the others Mr. de László mentioned, Titian's "Philip II" and Goya's "Royal Family" are in "Painting a Portrait"; so I am not sending them, and I have not yet been able to find a reproduction of "Pope Innocent" by Velasquez. If you happen to know where this picture is, it might help me.

I have no further news from Mr. and Mrs. de László, so am still expecting them on Saturday.

I hope you are well, and enjoying the warmer weather which has come at last.

Yours sincerely,
