Dear Mrs de Lisle,

This short note is to tell you of the deep sympathy that I feel for you in your bereavement.
The world is poorer for a fine artist and a great man - though his genius lives on through the centuries to come.

It is comforting to know that in his last days he must have been comforted by the knowledge that the fruits of his hard life were not thrown away upon a world, too often cold and unappreciative - and so in our turn should be glad that you and he were spared the misery of a long illness - Yours affectionately Harry Buckland
